

Kia ora tātou.

The college has got considerably quieter over the last two weeks with senior students on exam leave, and our junior students are able to spread out more. Everyone is busy as our junior students sit their end-of-year exams and staff generally plan for 2019.

Science Exhibition

Congratulations to the Science faculty and students who ran our inaugural Junior Science Expo on Tuesday night. The students had a number of displays about what they were learning and shared this with parents and family who attended the evening. It was an informative and enjoyable evening.

Community Project (MYP)

Part of the MYP framework is for students to undertake a project that provides a service to our community, so it brings the idea of service education into our junior curriculum. This year we have trialed this project with two classes.

One group raised funds for art supplies for students at Glen Taylor School and then visited the school to take art lessons there. Some other projects include working for the SPCA, arranging children's toys and clothes for refugee mothers, and creating an information booklet about healthy lunches for primary school students.

Managing the Pressure

NCEA is a challenging time for students. Please be aware that our Deans, Assistant Deans and Guidance Counsellors are still at school and available for students (or parents/whānau) who want to talk or get any help.

Sporting Success

Well done to our various summer sports teams who have been playing for some weeks now. Our cricket teams are going well, with teams at all levels playing well and winning. So far this term our 1st XI boys' team are undefeated.

Paid Union Meeting

Teachers attended a PPTA paid union meeting yesterday as part of their employment contract negotiations. Their collective agreement expired at the end of September and negotiations have begun between the PPTA and the Ministry of Education. I would be very pleased if this could be resolved before Christmas. However, that is exceptionally unlikely and I anticipate disruption for New Zealand secondary schools in term 1 next year. Watch this space.

Junior Prizegiving

The end of year is approaching fast, which means celebrating the success of our students. I invite all parents to our junior prizegiving on Tuesday, 11th December 2018. Details about this event are included in this newsletter.

Ms Michelle Simpson – Winner of Scholarship to attend the Yad Vashem Seminar in Israel 2019

I am very honoured to have received a scholarship to attend the Yad Vashem seminar in Israel next year. This prestigious scholarship is offered by The Holocaust Centre of New Zealand to teachers so that we can incorporate teaching of the Holocaust into our classrooms. This year there were 160 applicants, hence being selected is truly an honour.

We will spend three weeks in Jerusalem in January 2019 meeting with the Holocaust survivors and learning about teaching the Holocaust. These lessons will not only support my teaching of Social Studies and History, but are also relevant in a world where we need to encourage our children to be 'Upstanders' and not 'Bystanders'.

I look forward to sharing this amazing experience with students, colleagues and the Glendowie school community. My thanks to The Holocaust Centre of New Zealand for this once in a lifetime opportunity and to the college for their support of this very special professional development opportunity.

Michelle Simpson with Chris Harris (National Director of Education) at The Holocaust Centre of New Zealand in Wellington.

Asian and Oceanian Optimist Sailing Championships

Sean Sun (Year 9, Rūaumoko House) attended the Asian and Oceanian Optimist Sailing Championships from 4th - 18th November 2018 in Mynamar, South Asia. Sean competed along with nine other sailors from New Zealand.

During the opening ceremony, Sean and his teammates performed a haka in front of all the other countries' competitors.

Sean achieved some excellent results, placing 16th after nine races, which made him the Oceanian Optimist Class Champion of 2018. Sean was very pleased with his performance and enjoyed bringing home a trophy and a medal to New Zealand. Congratulations Sean!

Celebrating Life in the Spanish Classroom

In November, the junior Spanish classes buzzed and got ready for the El Día de los Muertos (the Day of the Dead), which is a traditional Mexican celebration mainly based on indigenous beliefs.

The Year 9 classes researched the Mexican tradition comparing it with Halloween. They learned the core vocabularies, such as ofrendas (offerings), calveras (skulls), velas (candles), cempaxúchitl (marigold flower). We also discussed the meaning of this 'celebration of life' in depth, it reminds us that death is also part of it and the importance to look at the past and future while being present.

The cultural activities included watching 'The Book of Life', an animate created by the famous producer, Guillermo del Toro, making masks, papel picado (paper cutting) and marigold flowers. Learning about the culture is as important as learning the language itself, and building intercultural capabilities for the future of our students is an essential skill required to enter the 21st century competitive job market.

Non-English Book Donations

The College Library is looking to grow its collection of non-English language fiction books, so we are looking for book donations. If you have books at home in Chinese, Korean, Māori, Samoan or Japanese that you no longer need, and the books are suitable for teenagers and in good condition, the College library would be very grateful to receive them.

Donations can be dropped off at the school's reception. Please note the school closes for the summer holidays from 12 December 2018 to 22 January 2019, and will re-open on 23 January 2019. Thank you for your support.
